

An aerial photograph of the Great Mosque of Mecca at night. The mosque's architecture is highlighted by warm lights, with several tall, slender minarets reaching into the dark sky. The central courtyard is a vast, open space filled with a large number of people, appearing as a dense pattern of small lights. The surrounding city of Mecca is visible in the background, with its lights blending into the night sky.